

COMMENTS FROM GROUPS

"Thank you for coming to empower our students and give our parents the confidence to parent with love and respect!"

Superintendent, Prosper ISD

"You made me realize that I'm worth more than I portray myself to be. Thank you so much, Collin, for saving my life."

Teen, Ironwood AZ

"I've cut my phone usage down because I realized those relationships aren't real. Face to face are. Thank you, Collin. My life has been changed."

Teen, Grace ID

"As a mother of teens, you answered so many of my concerns...with social media and I finally feel some hope that we can kick this [tech] epidemic in the butt."

Mom, Raymond Canada

Today's youth face challenges unimaginable by previous generations, including:

- Screens that are creating addictions as powerful and destructive as cocaine or heroine.
- Social media platforms that are driving up depression rates, self-harm, and even suicide rates and pornography addictions.
- Gaming addictions that cause lack of focus and sleep and even behavioral issues
- Predators who use pornography, sexting, cat-fishing, black-mail, parent/child relationships, and self-image to victimize kids and families.

Introducing Save the Kids

The Save the Kids Foundations was formed in 2018 and is a 501c3 non-profit. Before his passing in 2020, founder Collin Kartchner traveled extensively working with groups of students, parents, and educators to help

- Break screen addictions
- Decrease incidents of bullying
- Improve connection and focus
- Decrease rates of depression and suicide
- And more

Our speakers are known for their highly interactive, humorous, and educational presentations. They have years of experience as educators and professional speakers.

We would love to help you with your next student assembly, inservice event, or parent meeting.

Nick Sales

Education Testimonials for Nick

"The message Nick Sales shares is one I want to be shouted from the rooftops! Nick has dedicated so much heart to researching statistics and won't just sit back and be overcome by the difficulties and effects of media but instead has educated himself on how to make media a healthy place where goodness can be shared across the world!"

Addysen Clark

"Nick Sales is an incredible person and leader to youth of all ages. Nick did an assembly for our schools anti bully week and the things he talked about went perfectly with what we are trying to teach our kids. His presentation was fun and engaging for the kids and his message really sank into their hearts as several kids went to hug him and thank him after. It set our kids on the path of really thinking about what they are capable of doing and accomplishing in their lives. If you have the opportunity to have Nick speak to your youth I absolutely recommend him!!!"

Krishel Karras, School Administrator

Nick owns a video production company where he works with some of the top YouTubers and social media influencers in the world. In his career, he has seen how social media can bless and inspire others, but he has also seen it destroy lives.

Seeing that the number of kids wanting to become YouTubers and social media influencers is growing, Nick helps kids and teenagers with his inspiring keynote, "Likes vs. Legacy." He helps students focus less on social media and how many likes they're getting, and focus more on building a legacy and developing their skills and talents to actually make a difference and do good in the world.

His hilarious and informative presentation keeps students engaged but also shares an important and life changing message that helps solve the problem of increased anxiety and depression that comes from smart phones, social media and video games.

Popular Presentations:

Likes vs. Legacy

The biggest problem we see with today's kids is an over abundance of anxiety and depression that comes because of social media. Bullying, pornography, exposure to online predators, and a list of other dangers come when we give our kids untethered access to the internet and social media. In this keynote, Nick helps kids understand these dangers and helps them to focus their energy to something that will impact the world for good- creating their own legacy. We are losing too many kids, both figuratively (with mind numbing addictions) and literally (because of the rising rates of suicide among teenagers) and this presentation helps kids focus their attention on what is really important and what really matters.

Save the Parents

In this keynote Nick addresses the parents and explains that giving your kid a smartphone without teaching them how to use it properly is like giving them keys to a motorcycle without teaching them how to drive it, or giving them a loaded gun without teaching them how to use it. Most parents are unaware of what their kids are actually doing with their devices, and in this presentation, Nick instructs parents on how to teach their kids about screens, technology, social media, and the internet.

Nate Webb

Education Testimonials

"You've helped me see I'm worth more than my comments and likes on social media."

*Teen,
North Davis Jr. High*

"Nate's presentation was eye opening and powerful. Kids are already deleting these harmful apps. Every student NEEDS this."

*PTA President,
Davis School District*

"Thank you for speaking to our kids. There has been a definite change in the way they treat each other."

*Teacher,
Fairfield Jr. High*

"The assembly that Nate did for us was exactly what I had hoped for. I feel like the students felt empowered to create a culture of kindness. Thank you for coming to our school!"

Parent, Kaysville, UT

A long time supporter and protégé of Collin, Nate has more than a passing interest in the welfare and mental health of today's student. As a school counselor, a Certified Screen Safety Educator, and father, he combines his expertise with his childhood experience with aggressive bullying.

Nate's entertaining and interactive presentations connect with students, parents and faculty from K-12 and post-secondary audiences. His presentations hold grade school kids mesmerized and his humor appeals to older kids as well. His stories and examples resonate with all groups and create memories that inspire listeners long after the presentation.

As a professional educator and counselor, and from his own life experiences, Nate understands, first-hand, the struggles students face with social media, bullying, and developing healthy habits and attitudes. He empowers youth, as Collin did, to get off social media, get past their bullies, and love their lives.

Popular Presentations:

Bullies Be Gone: Rising Above Bullies, Looking Past Social Media, and Seeing Your Worth

Connecting Nate's experiences with bullies to the shaming found on social media, it also looks at how technology is enabling kids to be victims. His humorous style, combined with stories and his educational teaching skills makes this presentation both memorable and specific to the issues found in school kids today.

Seeing Your Strength: Giving Kids Confidence To Be Their Own Hero

Nate encourages kids to disassociate their self-worth from arbitrary things (likes, and comments on social media) and helps them see that they are so much more! His amazing outlook demonstrates that we all have strength within, we just need to believe.

BRITTANI SITAR

Brittani has a Masters Degree in Clinical Psychology and has studied addiction for 14 years. Beginning in counseling, moving into administration, starting her own treatment center, and becoming a consultant and content creator for programs, Brittani has a wide range of experience in the clinical field.

In 2020, Brittani saw the impact that the pandemic had on mental health and the shift in accessibility to technology in both homes and schools as the world moved to a tech-based operation. This began a journey for her to uncover how technology is impacting young brains and increasing mental health issues, suicide, and body image in our youth.

Brittani's goal is to spread awareness to parents, schools, and kids on how to implement safe technology in the home, set healthy boundaries, model healthy behavior, and know when to seek help from a professional.

Her expertise is based on my many years of studying brain development and the impact chemical addiction and process addiction have during development. Technology is a form of process addiction; however, it continues to be ignored when considering the diagnosis of anxiety, depression, ADHD, and suicide in our youth. Her goal is to educate the public on these issues and address them at their roots, which are homes and schools.
